BBO will broadcast from 8 tables in every round

IT'S NOT PURE LUCK

Only 8 teams remain in contention for the Zimmermann Cup after the first day of the knock out.

Playing 60 board matches offers little chance for the underdogs to survive.

So for quarter-finals today:

We think that the match between Era and Black will be a close thing.

Vitas had to fight very hard (1 IMP difference) to earn the chance to face Lavazza, who will be starting once more as a favourite.

Netherlands White will try to disturb Zimmermann's confidence. And finally, Assael will defy Ventin.

The first 32 boards of the FMB BAM trophy were played yesterday and the Young Swedes lead the 30 team field by a fraction.

Losing teams from the main event will join the BAM this morning. (JPM)

NEWS FROM THE WORLD OF BRIDGE

BRIDGE IS WELCOME IN MONACO!

During the cocktail offered by the Government of Monaco, Yves Aubry, EBL President, Jean-Charles Allavena, FMB President and Pierre Zimmermann, who launched the idea of this EBL Winter Games, all expressed their satisfaction for having participants from 33 countries.

They confirmed their project to organize in Monaco a big money prize event every year in February, on even years: EBL Winter Games, on odd years: the Cavendish.

Stay tuned on www.bridgemonaco.com for the details of each competition!

NEW TECHNOLOGY FOR DEALING MACHINES

By the end of this event about 16000 boards will have been duplicated by the hard working Franco/Italian trio, headed by Monica Gorreri. Up to now, no duplication error has been reported.

What is new about all that?

Business as usual, you would say!

A big step, though was made: bar coded cards are no longer needed.

Bridgesorter, the new machine, is able to read ordinary cards without a bar code. Bridgesorter has been designed by the Swedish firm Jannersten.

WINNER OF THE FIRST CONTEST

Congratulations to the winner of our first competition, Estonia's Jaak Känd who gave the following answers:

1) Team MAROSAMITAWA = from players' names: Martin-Roy-Sabine-Michael-Tarek-Waleed

2) Team LUPO VELOCE = Lupo Veloce (Fast Wolff or Running Wolff) is hero from Beatrice O. Harrell book "Il grande sogno di Lupo Veloce" or (same) hero from western 1961 "Two Rode Together"

3) Team NEMESIS or some rounds they played under name SAKR. In ancient Greek religion Nemesis was the spirit of divineretribution against those who succumb to hubris (arrogance before the gods).

NEW INTERNATIONAL EBL TDs

As every three years, a TD course was organised 3rd to 7th February in Prague. It was attended by not less than 75 TDs from all over Europe (including one from South Africa).

At the end of the course there were 9 nominations as NBO international TD and 3 EBL international TD - one from Germany, one from England - top of the list was a lady TD from Romania Mihaela Balint.

Sincere congratulations for her impressive 79.09 % mark!

BESSIS PÈRE ET FILS

by Mark Horton

We are pretty close to France, home to some of the finest (and oldest) wine making regions in the world. Next time you visit France, try to visit a winery. If you happen to be in the Burgundy region, don't forget that the typical Burgundian wine producer operates underground in a dark, damp, low-ceilinged stone cellar that can be found only by those with an intimate knowledge of village backstreets and the courtyards and passageways that lie behind and beneath them. Even the Domaine de la Romanée Conti, the most famous and best-endowed Burgundian wine estate of all, keeps half of all its fabulous wines maturing in a subterranean cavern accessible only by what is virtually a trapdoor.

Many of the older producers adopted a name that reflected the family interest, such as Bouchard Père et Fils and when I spotted that in Round 13 the draw had pitted a famous French father and son against each other it was not too difficult to decide upon a title.

This deal caught my eye:

18 years ago - Father and mother are already bridge champions; Thomas (on the left) and Olivier (between Michel and Véronique) follow the same passion.

Bessis Père got off to an excellent start by leading the six of clubs, and South won with the king and switched to the six of spades, declarer's queen losing to the king.

Playing a second club at this point would force declarer to get both red suits right, but when North returned a spade declarer won, played the jack of hearts to the ace, a heart to the king and then played the king of diamonds followed by a diamond to the ace. He could play two more diamonds, disposing of his losing club, +420.

North led the jack of spades and declarer won with the queen and played a heart to the ace, followed by a heart to the jack and queen.

North exited with the king of spades and declarer won, drew the outstanding trump and played a diamond to the jack.

South won with the queen and cashed two clubs for +50 and 10 IMPs.

LOW

by Mark Horton

Low was the eleventh studio album by British musician David Bowie, who died last month, and is widely regarded as one of his most influential releases. The album was mainly recorded in France and marked a decisive shift in his musical style towards an electronic and avant-garde approach that would be further explored on the subsequent albums Heroes and Lodger.

The old adage for the defenders is: Second Hand Low, Third Hand High.

However, there are exceptions and If you can't win the trick, the size of the card you play is significant and you can usually choose between giving count or attitude.

On this deal from the first session of the round of sixteen this old rule might have had a role to play.

South led the two of hearts and when declarer put in dummy's ten North covered with the jack and declarer won with the queen and took three rounds of spades followed by the king and ace of diamonds. North could ruff the second of them, but the contract was safe, +110.

Closed Room

Pass	1♣	Dble	Pass
1♥	Pass	2♠	Pass

North led the three of hearts and when declarer played dummy's six South played the eight.

Declarer won with the nine and played a club and North went in with the queen and cashed the ace of hearts, South following with the two.

When North continued hearts declarer won with the ten, crossed to dummy with a diamond and played off the top spades. This was the position:

♠ —	♠ 10	♠ 7 6
♥ —	♥ —	♥ —
♦ J 9	♦ —	♦ K 3

♣ K	♣ —	♣ —

When declarer exited with the seven of spades South did his best by discarding the king of clubs, but it was not enough to prevent nine tricks being recorded, 10 IMPs to Lavazza.

Having laid down the ace of hearts North would have needed to switch to a low club, an almost impossible play to find, but had he retained the ace and simply exited with a low heart declarer would have been without resource.

Would he have found this easier if South had played the two of hearts on the first round of the suit?

LAST THROW OF THE DICE

by Mark Horton

The late Edgar Kaplan was a noted VuGraph commentator. When a match was close, he would always look ahead to the last deal to see if it offered any opportunities for a decisive swing.

As the teams battled for the right to compete in the knock-out, we took a look at the final deal of Round 15:

Board 30. Dealer North. All Vul.

	♥ 8 6 3
	♦ J 9 8 7 5 4
	♣ 10 6
♠ 10 4 ♥ A Q 4 ♦ A K Q 10 ♣ A K Q 2		♠ Q J ♥ 9 7 5 ♦ 6 3 2 ♣ J 9 8 4 3
	♠ A K 9 8 7 6 5
	♥ K J 10 2

In the last round, Peter Fredin's team, De Knijff, faced Dracula, and a good win for either team would ensure qualification.

By the time this deal hit the table it appeared the team needed a big result, so when the opponents arrived in 5♣ De Knijff led the two of spades!

It was a brave effort, but it gave up 10 IMPs, just enough for Dracula to qualify.

At another table where EW had reached 5♣ South led a top spade, North contributing the three of spades and East the jack. Now South decided to lead a low spade, hoping that either partner would ruff, or that declarer had dropped the jack from ♠J2.

He too surrendered 10 IMPs but it did not cost his team their place in the KO.

A powerhouse for West, but South was sure to open the bidding. With four hearts and a void 4♠ would be too much, and after 1♠ West would double, when the most likely outcome was that EW would play in some number of clubs.

5♣ looks hopeless - the defenders must score two spades and a heart, but I speculated that an imaginative player might underlead in spades, hoping to score a diamond ruff.

"Maybe this would have been a better idea, partner"

Peter Fredin

WOULD YOU LIKE A DRAW?

by Mark Horton

When Connector met de Botton in Round 15 of the Zimmermann Cup they were lying 13th and 15th. A big win would ensure qualification, but a draw or narrow defeat would almost certainly see both teams advance.

In chess you can offer your opponent a draw at any time, but in bridge you must fight to the very last card.

After four deals, de Botton led 8-5.

 TEAM DE BOTTON

South led the king of spades and North overtook it with the ace and returned the suit.

Declarer had dropped the eight on the first round and when South allowed the seven to hold North switched to the three of clubs.

Declarer took South's queen with dummy's ace, ruffed a club and cashed the ace of diamonds. When the queen put in an appearance he could claim, +600.

Without a fit for clubs East did well to bid 4♦.

West's decision to pass was a surprise - one might even consider cue bidding 4♥ on route to the diamond game.

South led the jack of hearts and declarer won, cashed dummy's top clubs pitching a spade and played on cross ruff lines, easily arriving at eleven tricks, but losing 10 IMPs.

Things were looking good for de Botton, but Connector needed something good to happen.

When West decided to rebid 3♠ he set his side on the path to perdition.

On a very good day you might bring home 6♠ (for example, give South the ♥Q, when North would need to ruff if declarer plays a diamond at trick two) but not this time.

South led the seven of clubs (!) and declarer ruffed and played a diamond. When North discarded the four of clubs he took the ace and played a heart to the jack. North won with the queen and returned the ten, declarer pitching a diamond on dummy's ace of hearts and another one on the king.

It looks as if declarer can score eleven tricks from here by crossruffing, but he finished up with only ten, -100.

A well controlled auction saw EW explore slam possibilities before stopping safely.

South led the seven of clubs and declarer ruffed, cashed the top hearts pitching a diamond, ruffed a heart, ruffed a club and played a diamond. North ruffed and exited with the six of spades, declarer winning with the queen, ruffing a club, and playing a diamond.

North could ruff, and cash a club, but declarer took the rest, +420 and 11 IMPs, just enough to ensure that both teams would advance to the round of 16.

ARE YOU A MAN OR A MOUSE?

by Jean-Paul Meyer

It happens that you have a costly decision to make.

Let us see in the match board 13 first segment Lavazza vs Vinciguerra.

Board 13. Dealer North. All Vul.

♠ A J 5 2 ♥ K Q 9 5 ♦ 7 4 ♣ 10 7 5		♠ Q 9 ♥ J 3 ♦ A 8 6 ♣ A K J 8 6 2
♠ 3 ♥ A 10 6 4 ♦ Q J 10 9 3 2 ♣ Q 3	♠ K 10 8 7 6 4 ♥ 8 7 2 ♦ K 5 ♣ 9 4

You are not in the best contract in 3NT by East after the bidding:

West	North	East	South
Vinciguerra	Madala	Bompis	Bianchedi
		1NT	Pass
2♣	Pass	2♦	Pass
3♦	Pass	3♠!	Pass
3NT

Bompis had a difficult choice for his third bid. He considered he had a semi stopper in spades. It was a success when South took it seriously and led a heart, East played the ace from dummy and was at the cross roads.

He could try to finesse the king of diamonds, succeed and take 12 tricks. On the other hand if it failed he was due to be 4, 5 or even 6 down – the case as cards lie.

What is your strategy? Play for minus 100 - unless the king of diamonds is bare - or try for plus 690, risking to lose up to 600.

If the other table is in the same contract maybe your partner leads a spade and score + 100 but it is also possible your opponents are in 5♦ scoring +600 or -100 depending on the king of diamonds.

Very difficult choice: at pairs it seems more reasonable to settle for -100 but this is teams.

Looking at the diagram, you see easily what was the right choice. We are sad to report Marc Bompis lost 600 and 11 IMPs when Bocchi and Bilde went down one in 5♦ in the other room.

A VERY DETERMINED YOUNG PERSON

by Jean-Paul Meyer

During the qualification, the junior teams from Sweden and France were always in contention but only the latter achieved its aim of advancing to the round of 16.

One member of the team is a young girl, Anne Rouanet- Labbé. We watched her in action against Dechelette and Ionzteff, representing the French Senior team.

In this conflict of generations she showed much determination playing her 4♠ contract

Anne Rouanet- Labbé

The lead was the king of clubs.

Looking at the declarer play, you can tell which type of bridge player he (or she) is.

Here Anne paused for at least two minutes, evaluating the possible dangers.

She ruffed in dummy and played a low heart to her king. North having contributed the ten, South thought for a while and ducked: a good defence.

Declarer took her time again; cashing two diamonds and playing on a cross ruff might be the best plan.

Declarer went for another line with determination, a club ruffed, followed by the jack of spades, South winning with the king and playing another trump to prevent dummy from taking another ruff.

Declarer took that in hand, cashed her trumps and played ace, king of diamonds and a small diamond with confidence to the ten, showing her hand, 'I still have the queen of diamonds' she stated.

She had counted her opponents hands.

It is no surprise as Anne Rouanet Labbé is a graduate of the Ecole Polytechnique, the most esteemed establishment for scientists in France.
