Well, bridge is the most exciting game that exists. In the Netherlands there are hundreds of thousands of Bridger and millions worldwide play at home, in clubs, tournaments on the Internet or through bridge. Together with chess and bridge dams belongs to the so-called think sports. The game of bridge are simple and easy to learn. However, the game has endless possibilities and in that respect, the comparison with chess certainly. Mind is a bridge for young and old and also very suitable for establishing new social contacts. In short, the basic rules are simple to learn, but the game has a great depth.

In a phrase: "Bridge is a hobby for life and is known as the king of card games!"

Monday January 5, 2009 started a new beginners course in the "Palette" in Ermelo.

Introduction

Each Lesson page will have links at the top to all the material associated with that particular lesson. Please check that you look at all the different pages and ensure that you have the right material for each lesson you intend to give.

Lessons

Student Material

Each lesson has a number of different aspects - these may differ from lesson to lesson. Some will include advice on setting up the room for the lesson, all will have the Lesson of the Day, which is designed to give the teacher information about what is to be discussed, what material should be distributed to the students which will often include an illustration deal. There will be an Advice of the Day section and other teaching material.

Tests

Hands

For printing out, copying and distributing to the students, there will be a Hand Out, a set of Definitions and usually a Training Test for them to complete either at the end of the lesson or, preferably, at home in their own time.

Glossary

Extras

We will also provide posters for printing to display on the walls, suggestions for advertising classes, contact details for the National Bridge Organisations, book lists and any other material we feel would be of use to teachers throughout the world

Imagine the power to:

- Communicate as quickly, clearly and naturally in the virtual world as you can face-to-face.
- Create vibrant online communities where the sound of human voices replaces the clicking of keys, and real-time communication comes alive.
- Drive high levels of interaction that strengthen community.
- Make communications part of your community, tailored to existing social structures and user interfaces.

Founded by VoIP innovator Jeff Pulver, Vivox is shaping the future of online communication with IP-enabled, carrier-grade services that integrate voice, video, IM and presence to drive more robust social interactions. Vivox's managed communication services allow users to engage in real-time voice conversations while immersed in virtual environments.

With Vivox, Internet communication has come of age. No longer are online communities restricted to text-based messaging or poor-quality, do-it-yourself solutions. Vivox's IP solutions make crystal-clear, real-time voice chat an intrinsic, highly useful and ubiquitous part of the web experience.

Vivox partners with developers of MMOGs, virtual worlds and social networking sites to implement integrated voice chat that is an IP-based managed service solutions that create a safe, secure and dynamic environment in which online communities can grow and prosper.

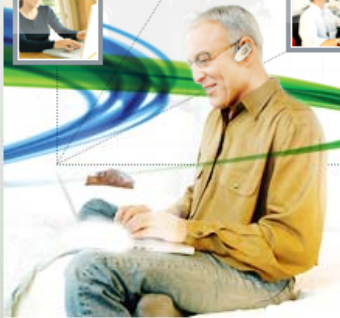

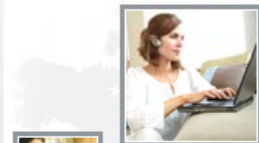

"In the gaming world, Vivox seeks nothing less than to reinvent the possibilities for real-time communications in massively multiplayer online games. These are ambitious goals by anyone's standards, but Vivox has a chance to have its voice clearly heard."
